NC Coalition on Aging
November Update – Part 2
November 21, 2017

This supplement to the Update which was sent out on November 17 contains information on people in the news, a listing of upcoming meetings and events not previously reported as well as links to recent news articles, news stories and resources.

People in the News

Rep. William Brisson who represents parts of Bladen, Johnston, and Sampson counties has changed his voter affiliation from Democrat to Republican. The switch gives the Republicans 75 of the 120 seats in the House which means that Democrats will have to pick up four seats in the next election to end the Republican veto-proof majority in the House. In the past, Rep. Brisson has frequently aligned with Republican colleagues on major legislation.

Rep. Susan Martin (R-Wilson) has announced that she will not seek a fourth term in the state House next year. She chairs the House Commerce and Job Development Committee, chairs the House Finance Committee, and serves as a vice chairwoman on the House Regulatory Reform Committee. Under a proposed redraw of legislative voting maps, she would have to face Rep. Jean Farmer-Butterfield (D-Wilson) in the House District 24 race next year or move to remain in her current House District 8

Former NC Rep. Samuel Johnson of Raleigh died on October 18 at the age of 90. He served in the state House from 1965 to 1974. After leaving office, he served as a special counsel to the House speaker and to Gov. Jim Hunt and later became a lobbyist.

Chris Fitzsimon, the founding director of NC Policy Watch, is leaving this position after 13 years to work for The Newsroom, a new non-profit incubator that will help establish and manage a network of projects similar to NC Policy Watch in states across the country. He will continue to live in the Triangle area and will also continue as a semi-regular Policy Watch columnist and as a weekly cast member of the syndicated political TV talk show, NC SPIN. Prior to joining Policy Watch, he worked as a reporter, assistant to House Speaker Dan Blue and was founder and executive director of the Common Sense Foundation.

John DeLuca, President of the Civitas Institute, a Raleigh-based conservative think tank, will step down from this position in the spring. The Civitas Institute has been funded over the years primarily by the John William Pope Foundation and has focused on school choice, lower taxes, and tracking voting records of elected officials.

Dr. John Fagg from Winston-Salem, a senior partner at Forsyth Plastic Surgery, has been appointed by Gov. Roy Cooper as chair of the NC Medical Care Commission. He has been a member of the Commission since 2003 and has also served as president of the NC Medical Society.

Becky Bowden, long-time public health advocate, died on November 10 at the age on 91. After her formal retirement from the NC Division of Public Health in 1988, she was actively engaged in numerous efforts to advance policies and efforts to improve the health of our state's citizens.

Anita Earls, executive director of the Southern Coalition for Social Justice, has announced her candidacy for the seat on the state Supreme Court that will be open in the 2018 elections. She is a lawyer who has played a major role in lawsuits challenging North Carolina's redistricting plans as well as its voter ID law and other voting restrictions.

ADA Survey - The Americans with Disabilities National Network is seeking input through a survey on how older people get and use information about their rights under the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA). The results of the survey will help inform outreach to support older people in understanding their rights and services. The survey takes about 15 minutes to do and will ask questions about how older people with disabilities seek and use information about the ADA. To participate in the survey, click here. Questions about the survey can be directed to the researcher conducting this study, Vicki Chang, at vc337@cornell.edu or at 1-607-255-9056.
